Enjoy a city park during Parks and Recreation month

It's July, which means it's Parks and Recreation month! While enjoying one of the city's 28 parks this month take a picture and post it on social media with the hashtag #RiseUpJuly to support National Parks and Recreation month. Residents can use parks to exercise, connect with Daytona Beach's natural beauty or appreciate the outdoors. To find a park near you, visit www.CODB.us/Parks.

Fun Fact: 93% of adults in the U.S. say their mental health has improved by services offered by local park and recreation professionals and agencies.

Bruce McNorton Football Camp scores big at Daytona Stadium

Another skill-filled Bruce McNorton Football Camp is in the books! Youth ages 6 to 18 were put through a series of drills by former and current NFL players, including Pittsburgh Steelers scout Bruce McNorton, at Daytona Stadium in June.

The free football camp focused on teamwork, sportsmanship skills, improving techniques of the popular sport and most importantly having fun. The city thanks Bruce McNorton for his support of programs to benefit local youth in Daytona Beach.

Senator Tom Wright visits Daytona Beach's Boys & Girls Club

Senator Tom Wright presented a $5 million check to the Boys & Girls Club Florida Alliance, which will help fund a variety of programs and initiatives for 33 clubs around the state. Known for their outstanding work, Daytona Beach's Boys & Girls club hosted the presentation in front of committee members and city leaders. The Boys & Girls Clubs Florida Alliance has 243 sites and has served more than 213,400 youth.

Schnebly Recreation Center

Storytime with the Mayor

Mayor Henry loves to connect with Daytona Beach kids through literacy! Storytime with the Mayor started in June with Mayor Henry reading to children in the city's summer camp at Schnebly Recreation Center.

Kids learn tips on healthy eating

Students from Bethune-Cookman University's Health & Wellness program recently stopped by the Schnebly Recreation Center summer camp and provided tips on healthy eating. Campers had the opportunity to learn how to cook and eat fried rice with vegetables and eggs.

Cornbread visits summer camp

Kids from the city's summer camps were treated to a Children's Book Festival at the Midtown Cultural and Educational Center last week. With a special appearance by the popular animated character Cornbread, youth received free books and enjoyed storytime with different authors. The festival was sponsored by Zone 6 City Commissioner Paula R. Reed.

Registration open for gymnastics summer classes

Daytona Beach Gymnastics Summer session is open for registration. Kids will learn basic gymnastics fundamentals, proper technique and teamwork in a fun and energetic environment. Offered for youth ages (preschool to teens), the summer session is July 11 to Aug. 19 at Schnebly Recreation Center at 1101 N. Atlantic Ave. For more information, call (386) 671-3561.

Local Kiwanis Club partners with J.C. Penney to benefit local kids

The Daytona Beach Kiwanis Club has donated $10,000 and partnered with J.C. Penney for a Back-to-School shopping program. J.C. Penney will offer deep discounts and $1,000 in cash toward a shopping experience for families in need. Leisure Services will work with local agencies to identify families who will receive the assistance.
