Summer Fun on the Run brings camp activities to neighborhoods

The city's Summer Fun on the Run made its final stop at Palmetto Park last week. Youth enjoyed music, dancing, arts and crafts, games, basketball lessons, fire truck tours, face painting and refreshments.

Summer Fun on the Run was created to keep youth active and engaged in healthy activities while having fun. Throughout the summer, the city brought summer camp activities to different neighborhoods including Daytona Gardens, Pine Haven Apartments and Lakeside Village.

Let the debate begin

The city's summer camp hosted a Debate Club for campers to strengthen communication and debate skills. Directed by Dr. Claudette McFadden from Bethune-Cookman University, classes were held three days a week for 45 minutes, and campers learned to disagree in a polite way, practice public speaking and research their opinion.

Debaters participated in the final debate last week at the Cherry Cultural & Educational Center. Topics included electric versus gasoline cars and uniforms in schools.

The Debate Club is part of the Mayor's Literary Initiative.
