Daytona Beach Gymnastics competes in first AAU qualifier

Congratulations to Daytona Beach Gymnastics for having a strong start to their first 2023 AAU qualifier competition in Orange City. Athletes ages six to 11 competed in several categories and brought home first through third place medals in all groupings. The next competition is Saturday, Nov. 19, at Sports Rock Gymnastics in Kissimmee.

Free youth basketball clinics offered through Nov. 16

Open to youth ages 6 to 17, the city's free basketball clinics are filled with fun drills that teach basic fundamentals of the sport including passing, dribbling, shooting and defense. The clinics are still accepting registrations. Clinic days, times and locations are online at www.CODB.us.

The free clinics are sponsored in part by The Vitamin Shoppe Daytona Beach, Advent Health Daytona Beach and Humana.

Youth learn about braille

Students at the city's after-school program recently learned how visually impaired people read and navigate the world with braille. The Braille Library provided hands-on activities where students learned each letter in braille has six spaces and were able to write their names by the end of the presentation. They also were also taught the importance of service dogs and how they serve in a vital role for people who are visually impaired.
